SCHEDULE FOR SUMMER SESSION IS ANNOUNCED

Two Terms Last Five Weeks
Each, From June 11 to August 18

SIX COLLEGES OFFER
TOTAL OF 200 COURSES

University Plans Several Sightseeing Trips of Interest for Students

Students will have an exceptional schedule of 200 courses offered in six colleges to which to accommodate themselves in the summer session this year. The program has been made out to meet the needs of teachers in both public and private high and grade schools in junior colleges, city and county superintendents, persons desiring training for Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and social welfare service, and normal school and college teachers, as well as undergraduates in agriculture, arts and sciences, commerce, education, engineering and law who wish to shorten the period of their college courses.

The normal load which the average student will be allowed to carry is 6 semester hours for each term, but those presenting a standing of 2 or better will be allowed a maximum of 13 hours during the two terms.

Unusual Courses

Several courses of unusual interest will be offered notable among which is the one listed as Education 19A. This course will consist of the study of the life and work of some Kentuckians who have achieved prominence. This is the first time such a one has ever been scheduled here, and it will be taught by 24 different men and women on different days.

Plans are also under way for a summer coaching school, which is to be a short intensive program for football and basketball. It will be conducted by Coach Harry Gamage, of the University, and Coach J. Craig Ruby, of the University of Illinois, and should prove a drawing card to high school athletic directors.

The residence halls will be open at reasonable rates and the University cafeteria will serve meals. The opportunities offered for recreation are many and varied. Lexington is overflowing with places of historic interest and scenic beauty and the University is planning a series of trips for the summer school students in order to give them the chance to become better acquainted with the Blue Grass section and learn to know its wealth of attractions.

The students will also be the guests of the University at the Redpath chautauqua which will be in Lexington from July 3 to 10.

Following is the summer session calendar:

May 12—Last date for ex-service men to make application for free tuition and room rent.

June 11—Registration for first term.

June 12—Classes begin.

June 14—Last date for making changes in registration or in schedule without payment of fee.

June 16—Last date upon which a course may be dropped without a grade by the dean.

June 19—Last date on which student may withdraw and receive a refund of matriculation fee for the first term.

July 13—Registration for second term.

July 14—Examinations for first term.

July 16—Classes begin.

Last date for making changes in registration or in schedule without payment of fee.

July 23—Last date for registering for second term without special permission of heads of departments concerned.

July 25—Last date upon which a course may be dropped without a grade by the dean.

July 24—Last date upon which a student may withdraw and receive a refund of matriculation fee for the second term.

August 18—Examinations for second term.

Law College Makes Plans for Banquet

Judge Stoll to Preside at Affair in Honor of U. K. Alumni

The College of Law of the University will hold their annual banquet in honor of the faculty, students and alumni April 30 at the Lafayette hotel. President McVey will be the principal speaker for the occasion.

The banquet is one of the outstanding affairs of the College of Law during the school year and a number of alumni return annually for the event. Judge R. C. Stoll, an alumni of the University law school, will be asked to preside as toastmaster.

Short talks will be made by Prof. Alvin E. Evans, dean of the College of Law, by a member of the alumni association, and by one member from each class of the College of Law. The latter speakers have not been selected.

A quartet composed of A. J. Asher, J. E. Kirksey, J. W. Jones and J. C. Burnett, all of the College of Law, will render a number of vocal selections. A. K. Rideout, also of the law college, will give a reading.

AN INVITATION

We are expecting a great attendance of Kentucky teachers in Louisville April 18 to 21 to enjoy the splendid program that has been arranged for the meeting of the K. E. A. As president, I extend through The Kernel a cordial invitation to the faculty of the University and to all students who have taught or expect to teach to join us in this convention occasion.

Very sincerely,
J. L. FOUST,
President of K. E. A.

CHORAL GROUP TO GIVE 'MESSIAH'

Dan Beddoe, "Grand Old Man of Oratorio," University Orchestra and Central Kentucky Vocalists Will Participate.

Handel's "Messiah," a song depicting the life of Christ, will be given for the eighteenth annual time by the Central Kentucky Choral Society in the Men's gymnasium, May 9, at 8:15 o'clock. A very large chorus of picked vocalists from Lexington, Winchester, Paris, Georgetown, Frankfort and Berea, the "grand old man of oratorio," Dan Beddoe, among other soloists from Chicago, and the University Philharmonic orchestra will combine to stage this masterpiece of song literature.

Students of the University will be admitted free of charge if they secure seats in advance upon presentation of their athletic tickets. Prof. Carl A. Lampert, director-in-chief of the production announces. Fraternities and sororities are expected to secure roped-off seats upon a payment of 25 cents for the privilege. The admission price to the general public will be 50 cents and 75 cents, the latter being the price of a reserved seat. On the evening of the performance the women from the Kentucky Association of Music Clubs numbering 150, will be guests of the University.

The work portrays the life of Christ, and consists in a veritable vivid number, "Peace on Earth," and the "Hallelujah Chorus" being notable examples. The annual presentation represents the high spot in the year's musical achievements throughout the state, and it is considered a recognition of the University's leadership in musical affairs that it is allowed to sponsor the production of the oratorio.

Col. Harris Inspects University R. O. T. C. General Review Will Be Held This Afternoon For Corps Area Commander

Inspection of the R. O. T. C. unit of the University began Wednesday, April 18, upon the arrival at the campus of Col. E. R. Harris, head of the fifth corps area and member of the inspection board, from Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

Sixth and seventh hour classes were quizzed Wednesday afternoon upon the work they have covered during the past year. Companies F and G will be inspected during the third and fourth hours Thursday morning.

Between 3 and 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon a general review will be given for Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, commander of the corps area. All classes will be dismissed for the occasion, and all students are invited to attend the review.

Resolution Shows Students Loyalty For Transylvania

Resolutions of loyalty to Transylvania College were passed by the Transylvania student body following the regular chapel exercises Tuesday morning in Morrison chapel.

The students resolved to return to Transylvania next fall and finish their college work regardless of the outcome of the clash between them and President A. D. Harmon, who has resigned. They also pledged themselves to be especially active in promotional work. A committee composed of Ernest J. Crutcher, Thomas Hatcher, Cecil Flood, Miss Cordelia Berkshire, Miss Margaret Walton, and Miss Cindrella Power was selected to study the resolutions. They were filed with Spense S. Carrick, secretary of the board of curators, with instructions to read them before the board at its next meeting.

Brooks Says Chemical Warfare Most Humane

Maj. Benjamin T. Brooks, consulting engineer of the Chemical Warfare Reserve, gave an illustrated lecture on the subject of chemical warfare Tuesday night in Dicker hall.

In his talk Major Brooks discussed warfare from a historical standpoint and traced the various wars and the methods of conducting them. He told how chemical warfare was the method to be used in the future and how, through its development it has become a more humane method. Major Brooks also stated that he desired to prove that chemical warfare was the nearest approach to humane warfare that has yet been reached.

Eight co-eds have been nominated as candidates for May Queen, one of the highest honors which can be given to a girl. Elections will be held April 24 and 25 on the campus. Those who have been named are Charley Smith, Alpha Gamma Delta; Lucy Davis, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Sara Warwick, Chi Omega; Anna Maye Sweeney, Beta Sigma Omicron; Mabel Graham, Delta Delta Delta; Mildred Greene, Alpha Xi Delta; Alice Spaulding, Zeta Tau Alpha; and Virginia Whyne, Delta Zeta.

Each nomination carried with it the signatures of twenty male students and was registered in Dean Melcher's office. In the election, the candidate receiving the largest number of votes will be made May Queen and the next six will be her attendants.

The Sukey circle, which sponsors May Day, has announced that it will provide a special float for the May Queen and her attendants this year. Heretofore the sovereign of the day and her fair maids have used a very little decorated automobile, and the plan of a decorated float was thought to be more fitting for the parade, which is one of the chief events of May Day. Members of the fraternities and sororities have shown a great deal of interest in the competition between the floats entered in the parade and have made plans for their entries. A silver loving cup will be awarded the most beautiful float; a cup for the most mirth-provoking, and one for the most humorous individual.

Organizations who have planned to enter floats are Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Delta Theta, Beta Sigma Omicron, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Sigma Kappa, Delta Chi, Kappa Sigma, Kappa Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Triangle, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Gamma Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Phi Kappa Tau, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Beta Xi and Alpha Sigma Phi.

DOCTOR LEW TALKS AT CONVOCATION

Chinese Scholar Is Brought to U. of K. by Pan Politikon in Connection With Study of China.

Doctor Ting Fang Lew, of Peking University, scholar and graduate of Columbia and Yale, gave an address on "Chinese College Folk," at the April convocation at 11 o'clock Wednesday, before a large body of students, faculty members and townspeople. The program was under the direction of Pan Politikon, a student organization for the study of international relations, who have set the month of April for the study of China.

"I am not a prophet," said Doctor Lew, "but I can say that the 20th Century will be different from the 19th century. The 19th century was a century of island empires and the 20th century will be the world of a country which can meet three requirements. These requirements are: A piece of land, intact and in a mild temperate zone; a country rich with natural resources and one that can produce enough to make the country self-sufficient; and a country with a large population eager to work for a better and bigger world. America, Russia and China are the three countries who can meet these requirements."

"Today, China is standing at the cross-ways. Should it walk forward with the youth of America or with

Professor Boynton Given High Honor

Prof. Paul L. Boynton, of the University psychology department, was elected secretary and treasurer of the Southern Society of Philosophers and Psychologists at a meeting of the society in Lexington, Va., April 6 and 7. Professors James S. Graham, also of the local psychology department, and J. L. Leggett, of Transylvania College, were elected to membership in the organization, which is made up of over 100 of the leading philosophers and psychologists in the South. Professor Boynton's term of office is to be three years.

Officers Elected For Women's Association

Officers of the Women's Student Government Association for the coming year have been announced as a result of the voting held in the Administration building Tuesday. Virginia Sharpe was elected president of the organization; Bernice Byland, secretary, and Henrietta Sherwood, treasurer. Ballots for vice president will be held again next week, as the votes for this office were tied.

Louis J. Endres' African Canvases To Be Exhibited

By Ollie M. James

An unusually attractive exhibition of paintings and drawings of north Africa by Louis J. Endres has opened for a two-weeks' showing at the University Art Center. Twenty-five paintings in oil and water-color, and twenty drawings and lithographs comprise the collection, which embraces views of the architecture and surroundings of cities which in past ages were among the mightiest and most glamorous in the world: Fez, Algiers, and Rabat.

The mirage cities of northern Africa, with their narrow, twisting streets, frowning ramparts, terraces looking down upon tumbled roofs, dripping mill-wheels, the twilight mysteries of the "souks," dark tunnels winding above the rush of hidden waters, turquoise minarets, the guttural voices of hooded figures leading down into the dim distance, are still cities of the past, pulsating with the charm of age-old mysticism under the Aladdin-like touch of Mr. Endres.

Among those attending the formal opening of the exhibition were Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert L. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Vandoren, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Barr, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bowyer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Haggin, Prof. and Mrs. A. C. Zembrod, Mr. and Mrs. Will Sims, Dr. and Mrs. Paul P. Boyd, Dean and Mrs. F. P. Anderson, Dean and Mrs. T. P. Cooper, Dean and Mrs. Alvin E. Evans, Dean and Mrs. William S. Taylor, Dean and Mrs. Edward Weist, Dean and Mrs. William D. Funkhouser, and the faculty of the Art department.

UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES MEET

The regular meeting of the board of trustees of the University was held Tuesday morning in President McVey's office. The plans for the new cafeteria to be located in McVey hall were gone over and discussed. It is announced that many improvements will be made on the new cafeteria.

Collect Your Mail

Students Are Urged to Visit Mail Boxes

There are about 200 students who have not called for their mail at the Bookstore and they are urged to do so at once. A large amount of mail has been distributed in the boxes and has never been called for, according to a notice from the postoffice.

TWO DORMITORIES PLANNED FOR MEN

University Board of Trustees Authorizes Committee to Prepare to Finance Construction Under New State Law.

The University board of trustees in regular session Tuesday authorized the executive committee to work out a plan to finance the construction of two new dormitories for men in order to take advantage of an amortization act of the recent general assembly. Dr. Frank L. McVey stated after the meeting that no details about the proposed dormitories will be known until the committee makes its report at the next meeting of the board.

Dr. McVey's report to the trustees was followed by a discussion of the legislation passed by the last general assembly and especially bills which directly or indirectly affect the University. Sabbatical leaves of absence for the coming year were granted to Miss Muriel Hopkins, head of the department of Home Economics; Prof. Harry Best, head of the department of Sociology, and J. Morton Davis, professor of mathematics.

The board also confirmed the appointment of Prof. Frank H. Randall as instructor in the College of Law for the next year. Professor Randall is now doing graduate work at the Harvard Law school and will receive the degree of Doctor of Science or Jurisprudence in June. He is highly recommended by Dean Pound and Prof. H. C. Horrock, secretary of the Association of American Law schools.

Wallace Muir Will Address Law Class

Wallace Muir, a prominent practicing attorney of Lexington, is to give a discussion of the preparation and trial of law suits Friday, April 30, at 10 a. m., in room 102 in the Law building.

Mr. Muir has been an unusually successful lawyer in many types of cases, particularly in damage and criminal cases.

He has some rather definite views with respect to the way a case should be prepared, the order in which the witnesses should be examined, the character of direct and of cross examination, and other matters connected with the preparation and trial of cases.

ISSUE PROM TICKETS

Tickets have been issued for the Junior Prom to be given in the Men's gymnasium Friday night, from 9 to 11. Music will be furnished by two orchestras, the Kentucky Rhythm Kings and the Masqueraders. Each junior received a date and a stag bid while each senior received one date bid.

Welcome Alumni

The University of Kentucky welcomes its alumni to this meeting of the K. E. A. It is proud of the part they have played in the Kentucky educational system. As the days go on they, in added numbers, will take part in Kentucky's growth. This is the spirit the University wishes every alumnus to have: to work hard, to serve his state, and to live honestly and well. Nobly will the University help Kentucky if it continues to send out its graduates equal in spirit and purpose to those who now carry the burden of service. It is therefore with pleasure that the University welcomes its graduates and former students at this meeting.

FRANK L. McVEY,
President.

DATE OF CONCERT SET FOR APRIL 21

Ohio State Girl Singers Will Present Program at 7:30 O'clock Saturday Instead of At 8:15, as Was Announced.

The time of the concert by the Ohio State Girls' Glee Club, to be presented in the Men's gymnasium Saturday evening, has been moved up to 7:30 o'clock instead of 8:15 o'clock, as previously announced, according to Margaret Gooch, president of the University Girls' Glee Club, sponsoring the Ohio organization's appearance. The change in time was necessitated by the Stroller dance to be given immediately following the concert.

The Ohio State club, of 35 voices, is reported to have one of the best vocal assemblages of its kind in the country, and while the exact nature of the program which it will present is not known, it is expected to establish a standard of excellence for contemporary clubs to aim for. Tickets for the attraction may be procured from any local club member for 50 cents, half of each admission fee being used to defray the cost of the Ohio club's trip, and the remainder is to be used to enable the local club to sing a reciprocal engagement in Columbus, Ohio, in May.

Marie Flora, chosen as hostess to the Ohio girls during their stay here, has not completed arrangements for their entertainment as yet, however the girls' dormitories have been selected as their dating location while upon the campus, Miss Flora announces.

Stroller Dance to Be Given Saturday

University Dramatic Organization Will Entertain Dancers Saturday in Men's Gym.

The Strollers, dramatic organization of the University, will entertain with their customary spring dance Saturday, April 21, from 9 to 12 p. m., in the Men's gymnasium. The primary object of this dance is to celebrate the success of the club on the extended trip through the eastern part of Kentucky which it took recently, giving this year's production, "Dulcy."

The purpose of the dance is to help defray the expenses of the trips taken by the dramatic organization.

The "Kentuckians" will furnish the music for the occasion. Admission will be one dollar.

Romany to Give 'The Whip of Fire' Some Time in May

The Romany players will present their last play of the season early in May, according to Carol M. Sax, director of the organization. The play chosen for presentation is "The Whip of Fire," by Girdler Fitch, which Director Sax states "has a happy ending in spite of its intensely dramatic nature, and is sure to please Romany patrons because it displays an abundance of action to dispel gloom." A strong cast is being chosen to enact the play, which brings to a close Romany's fifth successful year.

K. E. A. Convention Opens in Louisville

Many Noted Educators Are in Attendance; Full Program Is Planned

Approximately 7,000 teachers of the 16,000 employed throughout the state are in attendance this week at the annual Kentucky Educational Association convention in Louisville.

The program, opening Wednesday evening with a concert given by the Louisville Conservatory of Music, will continue through Saturday morning. It is perhaps one of the most elaborate affairs that the K. E. A. has ever attempted.

Among the noted speakers appearing on the program are such well known educators as Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; Dr. J. M. Glass, professor of secondary education at Rollins College; R. J. Condin, superintendent of Cincinnati public schools, and Dr. George Works, dean of literary school, University of Chicago.

VARSITY TO MEET EASTERN NORMAL BASEBALL NINE

Game Will Be Played On Eastern State Normal Field Saturday

COACH MAJOR MAKES CHANGES IN LINE-UP

Improved Squad Expected to Beat Their Strong Opponents

On account of the spring racing meet opening in Lexington Saturday, the baseball game between Kentucky and Eastern Normal which was supposed to have been played on Stoll field diamond, will be played instead at Richmond where a larger crowd is expected to attend. Both teams have about the same standing in Kentucky so far this season, as they have both defeated Centre.

Saturday, Coach Major may send his star left-hander, Rhoads, to the mound against the Richmond sluggers. This sophomore twirler pitched a shut out game against Centre last week and has been improving continually since the opening game with Ohio State on Stoll Field three weeks ago. His brother, the right-handed Rhoads, has been hovering around the bench for the last three or four days with a very purple ankle which received a hard blow by a ball from the bat of one of the players in practice last week, and he is not expected to play again for quite a while. He had been playing in right field for the 'Cats and his place will be taken, probably, by Francey or Mauser, which will depend on the recovery of Dutch Layman, who is complaining of a very bad throwing arm. Dutch is accustomed to cavort around the lot in center field and if he is unable to play, his place will be taken by Mauser and Francey will go to right field.

The choice of pitchers will be determined by the number of left-handed batters on the Richmond team. If they are few in number, Wert will be used probably in place of Rhoads. Lefty McGary is also coming into form gradually and he is expected to receive a call to the mound before many more games are played. Sid Goodwin, the ace of the catching staff, is due to receive the call for back stop honors Saturday. This former Colonelle from the Louisville team has a very noticeable way of inspiring pitchers to their best efforts, as his performance against Centre Saturday clearly indicates. Centre got very few hits and no runs at all. It is a revelation the way Goodwin blocks the home plate and tags his man when the play is close.

The infield reading from left to right, Cole, Gibb, Jeffries, and Crouch, will remain intact. Ropke again will play in left field. The team is improving and is expected to defeat the men from Eastern Normal, notwithstanding the fact that Eastern shut out Transylvania and allowed them no hits, and defeated Centre decisively.

Fraternity Standings Are Announced

Alpha Gamma Rho Heads List While Sigma Chi is Lowest

Scholastic standings of the social fraternities upon the campus have recently been made public by Dean Melcher. Alpha Gamma Rho heads the list with a standing of 1.568, while Delta Tau Delta follows closely with 1.543.

The general average of the men in social fraternities was found to be 1.264, while the average of non-fraternity men was only 1.241. The percentage of men in social fraternities is 23.4 per cent of the total male enrollment. The ranking of each individual fraternity follows:

1. Alpha Gamma Rho	1.568
2. Delta Tau Delta	1.543
3. Phi Sigma Kappa	1.422
4. Kappa Alpha	1.405
5. Sigma Beta Xi	1.381
6. Delta Chi	1.349
7. Phi Kappa Tau	1.326
8. Alpha Sigma Phi	1.288
9. Alpha Gamma Epsilon	1.286
10. Alpha Tau Omega	1.192
11. Phi Delta Theta	1.183
12. Sigma Nu	1.153
13. Sigma Alpha Epsilon	1.121
14. Kappa Sigma	1.070
15. Pi Kappa Alpha	1.046
16. Triangle	1.039
17. Sigma Chi	.951

Professor Portmann Suffers Burned Face

Victor R. Portmann, instructor of journalism at the University, suffered painful burns on his face when the oven of a gas range exploded at his home in the Rutherford apartment building late Wednesday evening.

When Professor Portmann opened the oven, gas apparently had accumulated, and was ignited by a burning jet on top of the stove. The flame burned his face, and singed his eyebrows and hair. A physician was called to attend him.

ORDER CAPS AND GOWNS

Seniors are urged to call at the Campus Book Store some time this week in order that their measurements may be taken for their caps and gowns.

RINGERS USED BY OPPONENTS OF S. C.

Writer Shows That Three Soldiers Are Used Against State In Game During the Season of 1898.

This '98 team was a well-balanced one and it was captained by one of the coolest and most level-headed captains that ever directed a football team on the field. There were a number of critical times in these games, when one less cool and resourceful than Captain Severs would have faltered, and the other side would have scored.

In the game with K. U. they ran in two "ringers" on us in the shape of two soldiers matriculated for the occasion at Smith's Business College, which then had a nominal connection with Kentucky University.

This matriculation in the Business College of athletes whose strong points were not those of scholarship, was a common practice of that institution in those days.

In the above case, Captain Severs detected at once the presence of these two "ringers" when the K. U. team trotted out on the field, and filed a vigorous protest, first with the athletic management of that institution, and then appealed to President Cave; however, his appeals were without effect as they all stood pat, averring that these two persons were indeed bona fide students. The game was then played under protest, as the crowd was on the grounds and S. C. seemed to have no other course open to her. As K. U. was defeated, of course nothing further ever came of the protest. Also the career of those two soldiers as K. U. students was remarkably meteoric lasting from matriculation to playing the game and dropping out, through just one brief fall football day.

Central University defeated Centre College this year at Richmond, 30 to 0. It will always be problematical what would have been the result of a game between C. U. and S. C. that year. It is undoubtedly true from the way Severs' team started in to wipe up with Centre that 5 of November, that only the fortunate rain saved her from defeat by at least as large a score as she was defeated by Central. Fourteen minutes were actually played and State made three touchdowns. Only one was counted.

Article III.

In my last contribution I stated that Lafayette Brock was manager of the football team for two seasons. My attention has been called to the statement as an error as far as the '97 team was concerned.

W. T. Carpenter was manager of the '97 team. The athletic records for the spring of 1898 are meagre. This seems to have been on account of the breaking out of the Spanish-American War, which monopolized most of the newspaper space. Also the war excitement seems to have lessened interest in athletic contests themselves, both among the students and with the public.

I have been unable to find any chronicle of baseball games in which State College was one of the contestants. I note that on Tuesday, May 3, Georgetown defeated K. U. 18 to 17. On May 21 State College had a dual field meet with the University of Cincinnati, and won by the score of 49 to 41.

The events with the winners were as follows:

ENGAGEMENTS

Colvin-Cochran
Dr. and Mrs. George Colvin, of Louisville, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lovey Mary Colvin, to Mr. William Duffield Cochran, of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Maysville, Ky. Miss Colvin was graduated from the College of Arts and Sciences of the University last June. She is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and was one of the most popular women students on the campus. Mr. Cochran was graduated from Centre College and is a Beta Theta Pi. The date for the marriage has not been set.

Frumberg-Miller

Announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Beatrice Frumberg, of St. Louis to Mr. J. Jay Miller, of Lexington, was recently made. Mr. Miller was graduated from the College of Law of the University with the class of 1926, and is one of the most prominent young attorneys of Lexington. Miss Frumberg was graduated from National Park Seminary in Washington and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Frumberg, of St. Louis. The wedding will take place this coming fall. They will make their home in Washington, D. C.

Ford-Dunlap

Mr. and Mrs. James McCoy Ford, of Georgetown, Ky., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret James Ford, to Mr. Branch Dunlap, of Versailles, Ky. Both Miss Ford and Mr. Dunlap are former students of the University. They will make their home near Versailles, where Mr. Dunlap is engaged in farming. No date has been set for the wedding.

100-yard dash—Innie, U. of C., 10 4-5 seconds.

Hop-step-and-jump—Salmon, U. of C., 39 feet, 1-2 inch.

880-yard run—Vogt, S. C. 2:18 1-5.

Pole vault—Soule Smith, S. C., 8 feet, 9 inches.

220-yard dash—Innie, U. of C., 23 3-4 seconds.

Running high jump—A. T. Smith, U. of C., 5 feet 2 inches.

Hammer throw—Wayne, S. C. 75 feet, 5 inches.

120-yard hurdles—Campbell, S. C., 18 3-4 seconds.

440-yard run—Innis, U. of C., 55 seconds.

Running broad jump—Salmon, U. of C., 20 feet.

Putting the shot—Wayne, S. C., 32 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

One mile run—Stegner, U. of C., 3 minutes, 20 1-5 seconds.

220-yard hurdles—Campbell, S. C., 28 2-5 seconds.

In my write-up of the 1898 football season for the February number of the Alumnus, I referred to two soldier ringers being played by K. U. against S. C. in the game with us that year. It would appear that the number should have been three instead of two. This fact has brought out as a result of a recent application of one of these players for a pension for an alleged injury to his knee sustained in this game. In his affidavit the affiant recounts how he was approached through his sergeant, and in the tent of a higher officer introduced as, he put it, to the "President" of Kentucky University (but who was more likely some other representative of the institution), who stated the great need of the University to strengthen its team against that of State College. He further affirms that he was "detailed" by his superior officer for the performance of this service and after practicing for several days with the Kentucky University team did play as a member of it in the game with S. C., and received therein a permanent injury to his knee. He also refers to several others of his comrades playing in the same game on the same team with him and among others especially to one Sergeant Bloss.

The above facts have been disclosed as the result of a United Pension Inspector making inquiries here in order to determine how far the claims of the applicant could be substantiated.

During the winter of 1902 a meeting of the K. I. A. A. was held at which more stringent rules for excluding professionals and ringers were passed.

When in April of that year, however, a ruling was made by the association against Hogan Yancy on the ground of his having played professional ball, K. U. withdrew, alleging that present excellent character as a student should outweigh previous record as to having received money for his athletic services.

S. C. had a good nine this year. It was composed mainly as follows: Ewell, R. F.; Tally, S. S.; Geary, 2nd b.; Grady, C.; Gullion (capt.), c. f.; Mathews, I. F.; Darling, 3rd b.; Elliott, 1st b.; R. Geary, p.

The schedule played with the results was as follows:

S. C.—6; K. U.—7 (April 12).

S. C.—9; Lawrenceburg—8 (April 19).

S. C.—4; Georgetown 0 (April 26).

S. C.—10; Lawrenceburg—0.

S. C.—14; Lexington Pro's—1.

S. C.—1; Miami—7.

S. C.—2; Georgetown 1 (11 innings, May 17).

S. C.—2; Berea—0.

"Bob" Geary will go down in State University baseball history as one of her great pitchers. He has probably never been equalled by any other of her pitchers except "Jim" Parks.

The manager of the 1902 team was E. C. Wurtel.

No field day seems to have been held this year. At least I have been unable to find any newspaper account of same, if it was held.

DIRECTOR SUMMER SESSION

WILLIAM S. TAYLOR

Dean William S. Taylor, Ph. D., who is director of the summer session, was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1912 with a Master's degree. From 1912 to 1918 Mr. Taylor taught in the College of Education at the University of Texas, and from there he went to Pennsylvania State College as head of the rural life department. In 1920 he took charge of the training and certification of teachers in the department of public instruction at Harrisburg, Pa. In 1923 he received his research scholarship at Columbia, after which he came back to his native state and took up his work as dean of the College of Education at the University. During the time Mr. Taylor has been here he has seen the College of Education grow from an enrollment of 67 in the fall of 1923 to 391 in the fall of 1927.

Sigma Nu Formal Dance

The Sigma Nu fraternity entertained with a delightful formal dance Saturday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock in the Men's gymnasium.

The fraternity colors, black and gold, were beautifully carried out in the decorations. Large black hat boxes emitting light through orange crepe paper in the form of the fraternity badge covered the lights. A lighted fraternity shield hung at each end of the room while in the center a large platform was arranged under the large black ball from which streamers of yellow, black and white were suspended. An added feature of the affair was the music furnished by Thelma Tierney and her Playboys, a nine-piece orchestra from Chicago.

The guests were presented with attractive programs of black celluloid with the letters of Sigma Nu inscribed in gold. At the four no-break dances the lights were dimmed by special lighting effects.

THE SUMMER SESSION

There is a constantly growing demand for the services of the graduates of the University in the profession of teaching. To fulfill that demand adequately, and at the same time to give those already in the profession of teaching. To fulfill that demand adequately, one of the chief functions of the summer school, held each year at the University.

Not that this is its only function. The summer school offers to the student, who desires to complete his college course before the usual four years, an opportunity to do so, and it affords those students who have neglected some studies a chance to redeem themselves.

But there are other matters, too, that need our consideration. There is the attractive program that has been planned for the twelve weeks, during which the summer school will be in session. Dean Taylor, who is in charge of the summer term, is making every effort to see that the teachers' and students' stay here will be an enjoyable one. In connection with this, a series of Bluegrass tours have been planned which will give the students a chance to view many of the historic and scenic places around Lexington.

The University will also present each registered student with a season ticket to the Redpath Chautauqua which will give a week's program here beginning July 3.

Each year, the summer school has proved more popular and University authorities believe that this summer it will not prove less so. The Kernel, having observed the summer session of past years, believes that the University's hope will be more than realized, and that those teachers and students who come to the University this summer will find the time spent to be most profitable as well as enjoyable.

FINISH COLLEGE

Many students in college today are disillusioned. They wonder if the time spent in college is, after all, of any considerable worth. Some have the idea that it is simply the "bunk," and that it is wholly unnecessary in making life a success.

We know, too, that it was not so long ago that the requirements of the day were fully met by the man without a college education. We believe, however, that such times have passed. One must remember that the present and future work of life is becoming ever more specialized. Competition is keener.

The mind that is trained to think and reason by four years of hard college study will be better able, we believe, to solve those problems one must meet in competition with other minds, in the eternal struggle for success in life. The sacrifices college students make by coming to college for four years, if there are any worthy of mentioning, are well rewarded in the ultimate results gained by the study.

Like a small brook, whose course can so easily be changed by canals, so that it takes a different route, so with the same facility can one change the course of his life and its ultimate achievements by dropping out of college. To avoid being disillusioned and losing courage may require continual effort on the part of the student, but how thankful he will be some day if he "sticks."

While numbers of men without a university or college education have been, and at the present time, and will continue to be successful, statistics show that those having the advantage of a college education have forged ahead in all walks of life. Two-thirds of the successful men and women in the United States recorded in "Who's Who" have a college education. The college graduate group has furnished:

55% of our presidents.
36% of our members of congress.
47% of our speakers of the house.
54% of our vice presidents.
62% of our secretaries of state.
52% of our secretaries of the treasury.
64% of our attorney generals.
69% of our supreme court justices.

The country needs in professions and in statesmanship men and women of vision, with character and with a sense of citizenship, who are trained to think for themselves; men and women who have an investigative attitude toward the problems of life; men and women who, because of their habit of trained thinking have the power to succeed in whatever they undertake.

THE K. E. A.

Affording as it does, the one time of the year when teachers of the state may assemble to discuss their mutual problems, the Kentucky Educational Association fulfills a vital need in the educational program of Kentucky.

Perhaps no other body than this one derives a greater degree of benefit from the association of its members. Annually now, the K. E. A. has met, discussed and solved a large number of those problems that must inevitably confront the educator. This year, again assembled in their convention halls, and with some of the most celebrated educators in America on the program to guide their thought, this body of men and women, to whom Kentucky must look to instruct its youth, cannot but find inspiration and a new sense of accomplishment in the task which they have set for themselves.

The Kernel, assuredly, hopes that this may be so, and that on the close of their meeting they may return once again to their work, reinvigorated in their life's purpose, inspired again with the vision of their calling.

WAILS OF THE WEEK

We note in an exchange that 25 of the University of Iowa baseball squad of 35 bat right-handed. We have found an equally interesting statistical fact on our campus—all but one of Kentucky students walk on their feet and she'll soon be able to throw away her crutches.

In view of the recent epidemic, we rise to remark that our student body is getting more and more measly.

We have a vague feeling that some of our neighboring rah-rah boys will want to know what we mean by "getting more measly."

Our prayer for the week: "May the May Queen be a real Queen. And how?"

The boyish pranks carried out recently in the Mens dorm have, we learn, turned out to be a real washout, both actually and figuratively.

The person who says that the fire loss is $4.75 per capita annually in the United States, never had a date with one of these so-called "warm mamas." That figure is merely one evening's loss.

The dishes crashed to the floor, the glass clinked down among them and the cafeteria grew quiet as the waiter blushed. Then it happened . . . "What about China?" a voice piped, and the crisis was passed.

DESTINY

I cannot tell the fate that lies in store
For me as I peer vainly down the dim Vague aisle of years. I dare not hope that dreams,
Based on intense desire, will then come true.
I cannot lift "lame hands of faith" to plead
My cause with God or gods that may or may not be beyond the veil. I only know
That here life is one constant strife and strain
To gain a moment's happiness and love;
That each of us stands on the plain of life,
Unconscious of the close proximity
Of Death, who may in kindness wait a span
Of years, or may in moments of caprice
Arise in wrath and sweep us off the plain.
They tell me, those who know, that this great sphere
Of ours, a helpless atom in the cosmic whole,
Goes hurtling through the seething seas of space;
That other worlds have gone before, and worlds
Unformed as yet will slowly shape themselves
Within the womb of distant future years;
That species come and species go and man
With all the rest shall strive his hour or two
Along the great cycloidal arc of progress
And decay, until the cosmic tidal strains
Have stopped the whirling of our globe, and locked
The last of life in everlasting ice.
And so I live but in the Now to work
For those I love, that they be spared the pain
Of disillusionment, that they be saved
As long as possible from Nature's claws.
And while my powers shall last, be it for days
Or years, from this alone my joys shall come,
My love of life be measured by their love.
And then when Death's grim form shall sound the blast
That marks the period of my fate, I'll rise,
I hope, as may become a man, and launch
My failing bark once more upon the sea;
Do combat with the waves that seek to suck
Me down into the gulf, and gazing toward
The western sky, behold the sun decline
To rest, while twilight slowly gathers depth,
And thickens into night; a gasp for breath,
A moment's anguish, blinding pain, and then
My bark shall glide beyond the breakers' surge,
While blackness closes o'er, and I sink down
To sleep upon the bosom of oblivion,
To rest, and not to wake forever more. —ANON.

THERE IS TOMORROW

Love is such a transient thing, they say,
Why then may I not start today
With a forgetful heart?
Perhaps it is because you left me tears,
An aching love which will remember through the years
Your slightest smile.
Oh, I shall go on living without doubt,
Laughing even, but I never may cast out
Thoughts of you.
Well, let me try anew this morn,
With such beauty about I cannot be forlorn
Too long. —M. CUNDIFF.

THIS KNOWING WORLD

The air is polluted with
The stench of ages of Men and strife.
The odor of perspiring wisdom
And unpurified sophistication Is mingled with
A thousand different blends
Of rotting worms
And petrified church mice.
A louse is crushed—
Beneath the foot of An unseeing Seer.
Alas, this knowing world! —M. H.

The Critic's Ink Pot

(By Ollie M. James)

Handel's "Messiah," that magnificent tonal epic of the Christ, will be presented again on May 9 by the Central Kentucky Choral Society, a coalition of the finest amateur and professional singers in the Bluegrass. This program, now about to be sung and played for the eighteenth annual time, embraces the most proficient vocalists procurable in Lexington, Winchester, Frankfort, Georgetown, Paris, and Berea, several noted soloists in the oratorical field, and the University Philharmonic orchestra, which has won distinction of accompanying the work after a long period of preparation. The University glee club will furnish individual voices, but will not take part en masse.

Of all sermons in song, this work is undoubtedly the greatest. The prophecies of an Isaiah have never sounded more significant than through this pronouncement. The angel song "Peace on Earth," has never been surpassed as a symbolization of the suffering and death of the Savior, nor our salvation through him more poignantly and gloriously translated than in that poem of song, the "Halleluia Chorus." The "Messiah" is integrally a part of Anglo-Saxon culture, and has been reproduced yearly by choral unions in England for over a hundred years. Prof. Carl A. Lampert, head of the University musical department, has been signally honored with the direction of the classic, the presentation of which is being sponsored by the University.

The arrival of a large number of Algerian and Moroccan paintings by Louis J. Endres, which are now on formal display in the Art Center, will gladden the hearts of the artistically inclined students. The paintings have as their motif the local color of the most interesting cities in north Africa. The canvases portray the rather unusual architecture of the country, with its kaleidoscope decorations and the crumbling turreted walls of the cities punctuated by huge arched gateways. Natives in their picturesque garb form many interesting portraits. The artist made the most of his genuine traveling to points in search of subjects which had hitherto been considered unsafe for travel.

The band at Ohio State is producing songs on phonograph records.

New York State College has abolished scholastic requirements for fraternity membership.

At Colgate University six students are earning part of their tuition by sleeping for some psychological experiments being conducted there.

Stanford University will dedicate its 1928 annual to Herbert Hoover, a graduate of that institution. This may mean a few votes for the genial secretary and then again it may not.

The University of Oklahoma will put its first competitive golf team on the links this season. Four men will be chosen to compete with 10 other schools. Members of the team will be chosen by tournament elimination.

Men students at the University of Nevada are not as good students as the women, if the number of delinquent notices sent out lately is any criterion. Out of 431 notices, 315 went to men and 116 to women.

The athletic association of Northwestern University recently opened a drive for funds. One system was that of "honor candy stands." It is said that $600 was lost through the use of buttons, slugs and the like in place of proper coins.

Included in the enrollment of the University of Washington are fifty Russian students who were exiled from the nation of their birth after having fought under the flag of the "White Armies" in an effort to maintain the old regime in Russia.

A petition by 116 students at Boston University to the dean, to allow bridge playing between classes, was recently rejected. The dean claimed that the practice would be both dangerous and unbusinesslike. One outstanding fact of the petition was that 30 of the 116 students who had signed it were on scholastic probation while 20 had received warnings.

Four teams of journalism students at the University of Minnesota, with four members to each team, have just returned from a spring trip in which they edited four Minnesota weeklies. The purpose of the trip was to put into practicability the theories of the department of journalism and acquaint the students with the country newspaper field.

Does the college boy or girl dislike the average college movie which portrays them as the original modern youth?

College editors throughout the country have been bemoaning the false light in which the college student is placed by the average moving picture portrayal of college life, but a survey of Columbus theaters in the vicinity of Ohio State University has revealed that no pictures attract so many undergraduates as those which are of college life.

Other tastes of the college student were revealed. They also like Western movies, they dislike triangle love affairs, and they won't stand for screen advertising. International News reels or educational films.

It also was found that the students as a whole are a well behaved bunch in the movie theater. On occasions, it was found, some "country hick" thinks he can pull his home-town stuff, but he soon learns to the contrary and falls into line with the rest.

"The Gay Defender"

Richard Dix, football player, prizefighter, soldier, sailor, Indian, and cowboy, twirls knives, bull-whips, and his mustache, to say nothing of beautiful young ladies, for the remainder of the week at the Kentucky theater. Richard Dix defends the poor, weak women, although they are every one beautiful, Thelma Todd, the feminine lead in particular, while wicked American gold-seekers are deservingly butchered by his flashing Mexican poniard.

For the first time in three years, Dix has the part of a young foreigner. In the "Gay Defender," his is the character of Joaquin Murietta, a Spanish rancher of California in '49 who turns to swash-buckling banditry after American desperadoes rob him of his gold, home, sweetheart, and honor. In fact, they stripped him of everything except his mustache, which he wears entertainingly throughout the remainder of the picture. The way in which Richard comes back is enough to gladden the heart of any small boy.

"The Patent-Leather Kid" "Flanders' fields of poppies, the teeming East Side of New York, the trenches and barbed-wire entanglements of No Man's Land, New York cabarets, boxing arenas and night life, and field hospitals behind the front are all in Richard Barthelmess' latest, "The Patent Leather Kid," which will entertain Kentucky theater goers beginning Sunday.

The story, as Rupert Hughes wrote it, involves a prize fighter, the Patent Leather Kid, who was the biggest drawing card of his day because of his widely hated affectations and his sleek, shiny hair. The Kid's extraordinary character, his refusal to don the uniform of his country and his amazing adventures overseas constitute the framework of the story which very nearly resorts to deus ex machina in order to secure a happy ending. You won't notice this, however, with Barthelmess acting, as only Mr. Barthelmess can act this type of characterization, and Molly O'Day, dear old Molly, on the feminine end of the usual oscillations. Alfred Santell wielded the megaphone, and Broadway paid $2.20 a seat to see it. Judge for yourself.

GRADUATE SCHOOL GROWS RAPIDLY

Fifty Candidates Will Receive Advanced Degrees In May; Club to Hold Annual Banquet May 8.

The graduate school at the University now ranks as one of the largest departments of the institution, having this year an enrollment of nearly 500 students. Of this number about 300 have been in attendance during the regular college year, and 200 in the summer school.

Many of these students are doing only part-time work and there is a growing demand on the part of teachers for opportunity to continue their graduate studies while still engaged in their professional duties. To meet this demand, the summer session program has been greatly enlarged in its graduate curriculum and special graduate classes have been scheduled during the regular session at late afternoon hours and on Saturdays.

About 50 candidates expect to receive their advanced degrees at Commencement next month, and twelve completed their work last December.

Beginning this year, for the first time, the University offered work leading to the doctor's degree. These departments are chemistry, physics, mathematics, psychology, economics, and education. It is expected that other departments will be rapidly added to this list. The University of Kentucky is one of the few universities in the South which offers the doctorate. The doctor's degree requires two examinations—the "qualifying examination" before the candidate begins his last year's work in which he must pass both written and oral tests in his general field and satisfy two requirements in modern languages, and a final oral examination at which his dissertation is presented.

An important feature of the graduate school organization is the Graduate Club of which all graduate students are members. The president of the club this year is Mr. George W. Bryson, of Lester, W. Va.; vice president, Miss Frances Roberts, of Lexington; secretary, Miss Lydia Fremd, of Eminence. The Graduate Club holds an annual banquet which, this year, will be held on May 8, with Dr. George F. Arps, of Ohio State University, as the speaker.

The graduate school offers five fellowships and ten scholarships to graduate students. These awards are made on the basis of scholarship and ability shown in undergraduate work and are recognized as high honors. The winners of these fellowships and scholarships will be announced in The Kernel in the issue of May 4.

Ornithologists to Meet at Louisville

The Kentucky Ornithological Society, which will meet at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Hotel Henry Watterson in Louisville, in connection with the convention of the Kentucky Educational Association, has announced the following program:

"Let Us Teach Nature Study," Miss Mary May Wynn, head of the Science department of the Louisville Normal School; "The Bird of Killingworth," pupils of the J. Stoddard Johnston School, Miss Henrietta Hoehle, principal; "Bird Baths," pupils of the George H. Tingley School, directed by Miss Susie Brooks, and an address on "Bird Life in Kentucky," by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate School, University of Kentucky.

A Letter To A Son

Wherein a Father Asks Cooperation Financially and Requests "Good Grades at Reasonable Prices"

The following letter with names changed is the exact communication written by a father to his youngest son. The father is sending three children through college, and the drain upon his resources is evident. We reproduce it, believing that other sons who read it will remember that their parents, too, are making sacrifices for their sakes and the only reward that most of them ask is "good grades at reasonable prices," manhood and womanhood worthy of the dreams and ideals of right thinking men and women.—Editor's Note.

St. Louis, Mo., February 15, 1928.

Dear Bob:

I received your letter, also one from Dick and Lucille. I am sorry, Bob, to have written as I did, but I was worried. I just couldn't seem to see my way clear and felt that you were spending more money than you needed to.

I think you will agree with me when you stop to figure. Your deposits have been in round numbers—$500, in addition to your band money, and $15 I gave you when you left, making more than $500 you have spent so far, for you have only a balance of $29 or $30. You can easily see that that would run up to $1,100 or better for the year, which would be $200 or $300 more than either Dick or Lucille would receive.

I am not finding fault, Bob, but I just ask you to be careful for I am anxious to help you all, all I can, and I surely want you to have the best education I am able to give you, for I believe I know what is in you, and that you are capable of making good so that some day I may look to you with considerable pride, happy that I was able to help you.

Just this thought—you are a member of Martin and Sons, and your cooperation is much needed for the success of the firm. I am glad that Ted is such a loyal friend to you, and I know if you will take him into the firm he will help you to make it win, and also help yourself at the same time.

I have cashed in some Liberty Bonds and am shifting my insurance to get some ready cash. These are sacrifices I am glad to make, even if I will have to work harder in years to come to close the gap between me and my old age, should I be fortunate enough to enjoy that privilege. I just want you fellows to get down and dig—for I have to—and make the most of your opportunities. Then I need not worry or worry you with my problems.

You and Dick go right on at the house as you had planned to do. I would suggest this—that you sit down, when you have time, figure your necessary expenses, then budget what you think a fair amount of spending money a month, add it all up and send it to me, keeping a copy for yourself. Then try to live within that budget. Have Ted figure with you, if you like, and I am sure we'll come out O. K. I hope, Bob, I have made myself understood, for I wouldn't hurt you for a good deal, and I believe I have always been a good Dad to you, and still want to be for I love you all. Our firm's slogan is "Good Grades at Reasonable Prices." Is that O. K.?

—Delta Chi Quarterly.

Love from all,
DAD.

"Shall Teachers Have Free Hand?" Is Issue in Education

"The crucial issue in education today is whether schools and teachers are to be free to deal with their problems and questions with a bit of the wonderful intelligence which they are supposed to possess and which they are forever recommending to their students," concluded Joseph K. Hart, professor of education at the regional convention of the American Association of University Women.

"Democracy implies in education an adventure of the type permitted to scientists, who admit no bounds to their investigations and who follow the lead of their imaginations to the horizon and beyond," he said.

"Looking at our current education literature today, I find scores of burning interests: Shall we have history in the sixth grade, or wait until the seventh to take up that formal study? Shall we teach straight up and down penmanship, or shall we let our boys and girls get a run and jump on their letters? The number of issues is very great. There are at least ten burning educational issues in every village in America, and the number increases in geometrical ratio as the population grows.

Discards Issues

"I shall sweep all these burning issues into the discard, and set before you one single issue that includes them all.

"It is this: Shall we Americans really admit that we have issues, today? Shall we open our eyes to the world that is about us and face facts? Lengthy editorials on education, tell us that if the politicians would let the schools alone, we should have no problems in education. Our college presidents tell us that if the students would get their lessons, there would be no problems in the universities. Our teachers tell us that if parents would support the work of the schools there would be no problems in the public schools. That is to say, everywhere we go we find people trying to make out that there are no real problems in education.

"That word 'if' is one of the chief obstacles to sound thought. The politician isn't going to let the schools alone; he is one of the problems of education today. College students are not going to study; they don't know how to study, and they are not strong enough to withdraw from the crowds and seek quiet for study; they are problems in our education. Parents are not going to support the schools; they are going to criticize the schools—and rightly so—because schools do not know how to educate, today, and though parents don't know how either, they are able to see that schools need criticism. That word 'if' solves no problems; it merely makes us believe that when we say the magic word, all problems disappear.

Admit Problems

"The field of education is nothing but problems today. The crucial issue is whether we are going to admit that fact, or deny it. If we admit it, then we can face a world of realities, with some chance of understanding what we have to do. So we are driven, as we are so often today, to rationalize our failures by throwing the blame upon politicians, parents, young people.

"Put in another way, the one crucial issue becomes this: Are we really going to admit intelligence into our educational discussions, and are we going to work for intelligence in our schools and colleges?

"We mostly hold that the way to get an education is to learn lessons! Now for every individual who has found accomplishment in that way, I could muster a hundred who have been ruined by that process, and another hundred who have been saved by not following it. Education is mostly a matter of happy accident! Pedants are made by learning lessons, but educated men are not!

"We have another doctrine—that great men became great by processes of intellectual plodding. Great men have done tiresome things: They, while their companions slept, were toiling upward in the night, no doubt. But that toiling was not of the set kind which schools impose upon children until the child is intellectually dead."—Daily Nebraskan.

83 Professors to Be Here This Summer

Seven New Instructors Are Included in Notable Line-up

Eighty-three professors in six departments will have charge of the instruction of summer school students for the two terms during June and July this year. Included in this group are some of the most outstanding men the campus boasts and the board is fortunate in getting them to remain.

There are seven new instructors among this group, namely: G. Ivan Barnes, A. M., of Frankfort, who will teach vocational education; Ernest J. Eberling, A. M., of Vanderbilt University, professor of economics; Lauritzen Hansen, M. A., of Columbia University, instructor of home economics and education; J. B. Holloway, M. A., of Frankfort, professor of education; J. L. Leggett, M. A., of Transylvania professor of education; John Howard Payne, superintendent of schools, Maysville, professor of education; and A. S. White, A. M., University of Nebraska instructor in political science.

The officers of the summer session are: Frank L. McVey, Ph. D., LL. D., president; W. C. Bell, M. A., state superintendent of schools; William S. Taylor, Ph. D., director of the summer session; and Wellington Patrick, Ph. D., assistant director of the summer session. Mrs. P. K. Holmes of Sayre College, Lexington, who has served as dean of women in Sarah G. Blanding's place for several summers past, will again serve in that capacity.

Squirrel Food was eliminated last week because the keeper was recuperating from a strenuous Easter vacation and did not wake up in time to function in his customary capacity.

Another Medal for Lindy
We nominate for our own particular Hall of Fame, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh because he came to Lexington without seeing Man o' War.

After the strenuous preparation for the government inspection, the junior officers of the R. O. T. C. regiment began to believe in the war-time growth of disgruntled doughboys, that "God made Hell for second lieutenants."

Fashion Note
New spring suits in the grays and lighter browns will be worn by those who can afford them.

The keeper's favorite class is Mr. Farquhar's sixth hour Shakespeare because he can carry the book in his hip pocket.

Heard at Union station, Louisville, as a university contingent was coming in from the holidays: "Hey, porter, set that bag down easy!" We presume the boy was bringing phonograph records back for the edification of the brothers.

The dumbest freshman we have found wanted to know where the visiting teams stayed while the rifle matches were being fired.

Beginning next week, Squirrel Food, with no intention of imitating the Lexington Herald or anyone else, will print a series of "Campus History" articles compiled by the keeper during his four years at this, our Alma Mater. These are humorous anecdotes of campus happenings and many of them concern intimate phases of the lives of well known campus characters. None of them have ever appeared in print before and we sincerely hope they never will again. Don't miss the first of the series in next week's Kernel.

SENIOR ENGINEERS VISIT FACTORIES ON EASTERN TRIP

Ford Automobile and Aeroplane Plant Is Interesting Stop in Detroit

UNIVERSITY BOYS SEE U. S. RUBBER COMPANY
Kentuckians Are Shown Lamp Department of General Electric in Buffalo

The senior engineers of the University, in the midst of their trip through the East, have visited power plants, automobile factories, filtration plants, mail order firms, electric companies, radiator companies, metal manufacturing companies, lithographing companies, and everything which is dependent for its existence on engineering.

According to reports received from H. L. Bobson, H. M. Otto, Robert K. Dobson and W. P. Clark, senior engineers' inspection tour, the trip is affording a very interesting, as well as amusing, vacation for the engineers. The trip, which is an annual event, is being conducted by Dean F. Paul Anderson.

The following log account has been received from Detroit: "Arrived here at 7:25 a. m., April 5. Went to Book-Cadillac hotel for breakfast. Went to Ford Motor Company plant in buses provided by the American Bar and Foundry Company. Under personal direction of Mr. Ash, a close friend of Mr. Ford, visited the power house which is one of the latest improvements in steam generation and power development.

"Then dodged through a maze of Fords and Fordsons to the factory proper where wholesale production of the integral part goes on at a terrific rate. Then to the assembly plant and watched Fords literally spring up before one's eyes at the rate of 2,000 cars a day. Then through the rolling mills and iron foundry.

"Had lunch at the Ford plant and proceeded to the Ford airport and watched the construction of tri-motored planes, steel construction being used for all parts. Posed for a picture and then back to the hotel and so to Canada."

Friday the engineers visited the American Bar and Foundry Company, the largest manufacturers of gas engine valves and carbureters in the world.

The new "de luxe" model was the chief attraction at the Lincoln Motor plant. The party was shown through the plant by the official custodian who spent considerable time in discussing the various things of interest giving a great deal to the history of the plant.

In the afternoon the engineers visited the United States Rubber Company, famous manufacturers of cord tires. The process was demonstrated with moulds under 12,000 pounds pressure. The next visit was paid to the filtration plant of the Detroit Water Works.

The day's tour was completed with a drive over to the famed Belle Isle along the shore road to Lake St. Claire and back on the Canadian side. That night at 5:30, Lexington time Dean Anderson delivered an address over radio station WJR at the Book-Cadillac hotel in Detroit. A number of Lexington people reported hearing the talk.

The class spent Saturday in Detroit on an inspection trip of the General Motors proving ground and the factory of the Pontiac Motor Car Company, and at luncheon were the guests of the General Motors Corporation. In the evening the U. of K. alumni of Detroit gave a banquet in their honor. The toastmaster was E. H. Clark, a heating and ventilating engineer. Speakers were: Federal Judge Ira C. Jaynes; Thomas Stevenson, member of the class; Prof. H. C. Anderson and Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, both of the College of Engineering, University of Michigan; W. A. Rowe, chief engineer of the American Blower Company, and Dean F. Paul Anderson, who accompanied the boys on the tour.

The traveling engineers left Detroit Saturday night, April 7, for Buffalo, N. Y. When the engineers reached Buffalo they were brought into contact with something other than power plants, automobile factories, filtration plants, or any of the other industries dependent on engineering. They were treated to a trip through the factory of the Larkin Company, a large mail order firm which manufactures the greater portion of its merchandise. Among the items of interest in this plant were enormous kettles several stories high used for boiling soap, the enormous amounts of shaving cream, tooth paste, face lotions, and pills manufactured and packed, and numerous other pharmaceutical preparations.

The evening in Buffalo was spent in visiting the Buffalo lamp works division of the General Electric Company. This factory is devoted entirely to the manufacture of miniature lamps, of which it makes daily one-fourth of a million, which include Christmas tree and automobile lamps.

Still in Buffalo on Wednesday the men were taken in busses to the Bond plant of the American Radiator Company, where they inspected the immense foundry which pours 810 tons of metal daily—this is the largest grey iron foundry in the world. After the inspection the men were guests of the company at luncheon, following which the party was taken by bus to the American Brass Company, which manufactures copper and brass pipe, sheet metal of all kinds, and copper, brass, and bronze ribbon.

Thursday, their last day in Buffalo, the boys visited the American Lithographing Company, Buffalo Consistory, Albright Art Gallery, and the Buffalo Historical Society building. They were entertained with a luncheon at the Buffalo Forge Company, after which they inspected the company plant.

A banquet was given in their honor at the Chamber of Commerce by the Buffalo alumni Thursday night, immediately following which the party disbanded, about half leaving for Lexington and the other half for New York City.

College Registrars Elect M. E. Mattox

Eastern State Teachers College Official Honored by Association

M. E. Mattox, registrar of Eastern State Teachers College, Richmond, was elected president of the southern branch of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars at the final session of a convention held last Friday and Saturday at the University.

Mrs. Cleo Gillis Hester, registrar of Murray State Teachers College, was named secretary of the association.

The final session began at 9 o'clock Saturday at which time James Moreland, registrar of Georgetown College, led a discussion on "What Can the Registrar Do to Reduce Poor Scholarship?" "The Point System: Its Advantages and Disadvantages," was discussed by Mrs. Hester. Mrs. Helen Stanley addressed the meeting on "What Information Should the Registrar's Office Be Able to Give on Short Notice?" "How May Registration Be Speeded Up?" was the subject of a discussion led by J. L. Chambers, dean of Morehead State Normal. Warren Peyton, director of certification, State Department of Education, Frankfort, spoke on "Certification on Credentials."

Teachers: "Johnny, did you write 'Teacher is a fool' on the blackboard?"

Johnny: "Y-yes."

Teacher: "I am glad you are truthful."

Chemistry Essay Prizes Are Won by Lexington Students

Four Lexington Senior High school students won high places in the Kentucky section of the annual essay contest of the American Chemical Society. Thomas Moore and Eldred Calkins won first places, and will receive $20 each and have their essays entered in the national contest, where owners of the best essays will receive scholarships to Yale University or Vassar College. Certificates of honorable mention were won by Miss Elizabeth Poole and George Roberts, Jr.

Other first prize winners were Miss Karlen Meyers, Miss Mary Heben and Paul S. Pate, all of Louisville, and Miss Francesa Allen, of Paducah.

Other winners of second place or honorable mention were Robert Rogers and Miss Mary Lou Davis, Paducah; Miss Francesa Ives, Louisville, and Milton S. Lyeon, Louisiana.

Ninety-six essays were entered in the contest. Prof. Howell Spears, of the University of Kentucky, was chairman of the committee. He was assisted by the following judges: A. J. Zimmerman, Miss Leah Gault, E. C. Johnson, L. N. Fergus, and George Roberts, all of the University of Kentucky; V. F. Payne, Transylvania University; R. J. Kaufman, and A. W. Homberger, university of Louisville; C. W. Williams and A. J. Snyder, Louisville chemists, and W. J. Craig and C. P. McNally, of the Western State Normal, Bowling Green.

Heywood Broun Favors Co-Educational Schools

Heywood Broun, nationally famous columnist magazine contributor, who is considered as having the largest personal following in New York, was interviewed by the New York University Daily News. Asked about co-education he told a reporter:

"I'm strong for the co-ed and heartily believe in co-education. I think it's the best thing for colleges. It's preferable for the college man to have association with women in the college than outside of it. When there is no opportunity within the college, the men will go outside and associate with women on a lower intellectual and social standing. And they often show a preference for waitresses.

"The monastic idea, of purely men's colleges, is all wrong! I can't see them at all."

Ruler of Reptile Kingdom Is Dethroned by Latest Arrival

(By W. A. Kirkpatrick)

"Nitro," the large diamond-back rattler that has reigned supreme in the reptile kingdom of the zoology department of the University for the past few weeks has been dethroned and is no longer the center of attraction. He gave his high position to the more important arrival, which, the keeper says, is his grandfather that arrived from Texas last Tuesday.

Ray Stadelman, snake keeper, and Doctor Funkhouser, dean of the graduate school, were very enthusiastic over the new arrival which is much like "Nitro," except he is larger. A letter was dispatched by Doctor Funkhouser thanking the donor of the reptile fifteen minutes after the snake was placed in the cage.

C. J. Meredith, state superintendent of wardens of the Kentucky Game and Fish Commission, who is in Texas purchasing quail to restock Kentucky, found the snake and sent it to Doctor Funkhouser.

There was a great battle when the reptile was taken from the box and although spectators ran affrighted from the room, Stadelman seemed to enjoy the fight.

The reptile is more than twelve inches in circumference, six feet long, and weighs eighteen pounds.

"Nitro" has been supreme in the dominion of the zoology department since his arrival at the University. For a short time before he arrived all was quiet, for none of the reptile kingdom remained to molest the peaceful surrounding. All the others had died when their keeper tried to force them to eat.

Ray Stadelman began his operations at the University at the beginning of school last September, when he opened the first and only snake dairy operated in Lexington. Sixteen robust timber rattlesnakes constituted the reptile kingdom. At that time these were daily "milked" for their venom. The students were so accustomed to regular cow milk dairies, however, that the project proved to be a financial failure, and the snakes, probably temperamental because of lack of appreciation, began to pine away and die, until only nine were left.

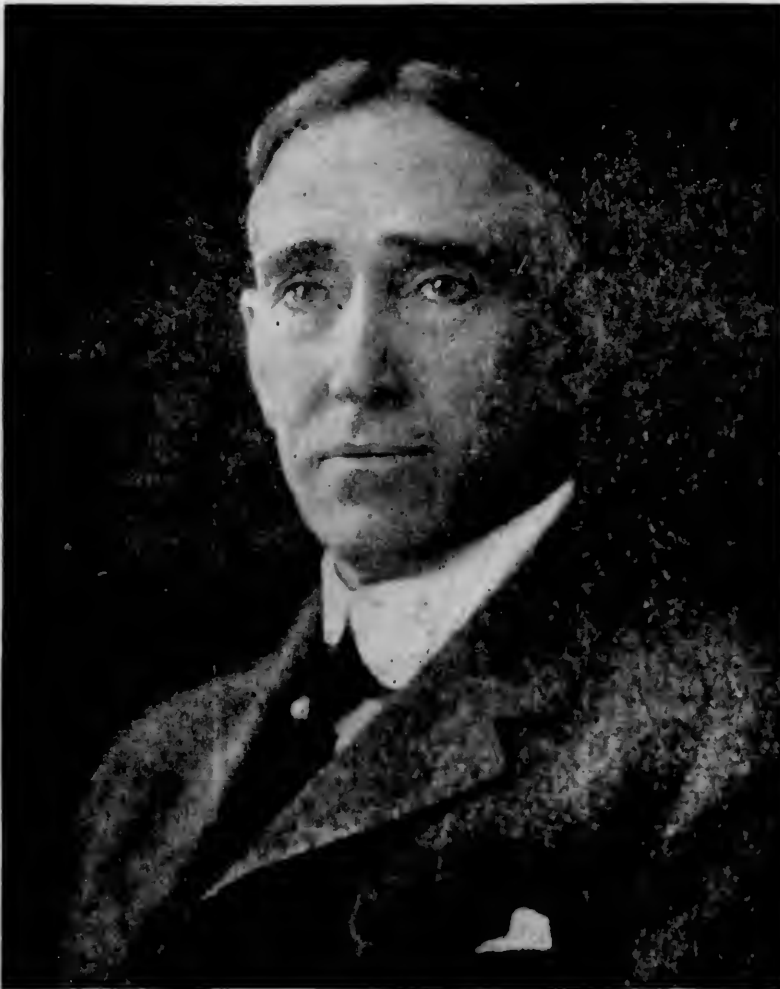

The snakes had not been fed for several months, and one day Stadelman acquired a large restaurant rat and placed it in the cage for their meal.

Feeling certain that the rat would meet its fate resignedly and be devoured. But not so. Mr. Rat, instead of submitting to being made a meal, turned on the snakes and killed four of them. Not only that, but he ate the tender parts that struck his fancy. This left five snakes, including King Oscar, the ruler of the cage.

A few days later Stadelman decided the snakes must be hungry, since the rat had not suited their tastes, and resorted to forcible feeding. Then, from some unknown cause, all the snakes took sick and died, among them King Oscar.

The snake cage was tenantless for some time, except for the odor, until a kind-hearted student had Nitro shipped to Lexington from the wilds of Texas.

PRESIDENT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

DR. FRANK L. McVEY

Dr. Frank LeRond McVey, president of the University, was born in Wilmington, Ohio, November 10, 1869, and received his A. B. degree from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1893. He took his Ph. D. from Yale in 1895. In 1910 Ohio Wesleyan awarded Dr. McVey his L. L. D. degree, and in 1919 the University of Alabama duplicated this act.

Dr. McVey was an editorial writer in New York in 1895 and an instructor in history, Teachers College (Columbia), 1895-1896. He was an instructor, assistant professor and professor of economics at the University of Minnesota from 1896 to 1907. Dr. McVey was the first chairman of the Minnesota Tax Commission, from 1907 to 1909, and from 1909 to 1917 he was the president of the University of North Dakota. He was president of the Minneapolis Associated Charities in 1898-1907, and secretary of the Minneapolis Academy of Social Sciences for two years beginning in 1907. He was first vice president of the American Economics Association in 1910 and 1928. He is also a member of 4 States Educational Surveys: North Dakota, Oklahoma, Indiana, and Florida, and is a member of the Kentucky State Board of Vocational Education.

Dr. McVey, besides being the editor of the National Social Science Series is the author of "The Populist Movement," 1896; "History and Government of Minnesota," 1901; "Modern Industrialism," 1904; "Transportation," 1910; "The Making of a Town," 1913; "Economics of Business," 1917; "Financial History of Great Britain," 1914-1918; and many reports, articles and reviews. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities.

Placement Bureau Attempts to Locate Would-be Teachers

Prof. M. E. Ligon, who is director of the teachers placement bureau of the University, has announced that thumb nail sketches of 144 prospective teachers have been mailed to county school superintendents and to heads of all independent graded schools throughout Kentucky.

These sketches, which include church affiliation, sex, age, experience, subjects in which person is prepared and whether they are married or single, aid students in locating schools where they may teach during the coming year.

The bureau placed 125 teachers last year at salaries averaging $1,200 per year. The service is given free to graduates of the University.

F. C. Jones Visits At Allen County

F. C. Jones, soil specialist of the College of Agriculture at the University, was in Allen county recently with County Agent J. H. Atkinson. Lime meetings were held with farmers in the Mount Aerial, New Roe and Settle communities. Plans were outlined at New Roe for two sets of lime to be crushed during July and August, with F. C. Calvert as leader in getting farmers to use lime in that community and to obtain a pulverizer for the community of Settle, with S. L. Harmon as leader, to obtain a demonstrator and make arrangements for a pulverizer to be operated there later during the year.

Finds Tobacco for "Breaking In" a Pipe

Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va.
Columbus, Ohio
March 10, 1927

Gentlemen:
Two years ago my wife gave me an expensive pipe. I smoked it a great deal for two or three weeks, put it aside, then began smoking it again. This time it was very strong. Veterans told me that it had been smoked too hard for a new pipe and should be put away.

The pipe was laid away again. A short time ago I got it out and smoked one of the common brands of tobacco in it. The results were disappointing. I told the druggist of my experience with it. He asked if I had tried Edgeworth. I told him I never had. I followed his suggestion, and I am honest when I say that it has restored the sweetness to the pipe, and has made me wonder. Was it the pipe or the brand of tobacco that caused me to say it away for the long period of time? As a novice, I prefer Edgeworth. I am going to stick to it, as I feel satisfied that there is none better on the market.

Sincerely yours,
Philip C. Shera

Collegians Dethrone "College Humor"

Humorous Magazine Will Not Have Sole Reprint Rights on Collegiate Wit

(By New Student Service)

College Humor is no longer to be leader and dictator of American collegiate wit, so far as the Western Association of College Comics is concerned. The editors and managers of these publications, in convention at the University of Washington, voted to break their contracts which give College Humor sole reprint rights.

"Our reason for breaking the contract," said Albert Salisbury, president of the association, "is that we feel that College Humor is painting a picture of flaming youth which is not real, and which gives to the average reader a false idea of college life."

"The magazine takes all the gin and sex jokes and plays them as representative college humor, with no mention of any other type. College magazines bury the gin and sex jokes, with a greater proportion of clean humor just as representative of college life."

The action was unanimous. The

Journal of Chemical Education Praises Kentucky Chemists

In a paper that appeared in the Journal of Chemical Education, February, 1928, J. S. McHargue, chemist in the Experiment Station of the University, declared that the two greatest chemists and workers whom Kentucky has contributed to science are Dr. Robert Peter and his son, Dr. Alfred Meredith Peter.

In the article Mr. McHargue says that the name "Peter" has been continuously associated with chemistry in Kentucky through the labors of Dr. Robert Peter and his son for almost one hundred years. The work of the son has been in a measure a continuation of the work first started by his illustrious father, who was a pioneer chemist in the country west of the Allegheny mountains. Any attempt to describe separately the labors of either is to break abruptly the continuity of an interesting story of the progress in chemistry for a long time in Kentucky.

The father died at his home, eight miles north of Lexington, April, 26, 1894. The son is a chemist at the Experiment Station of the University, still carrying on the work that was started by his father many years ago.

Dean Paul Prentice Boyd, of the College of Arts and Sciences, has been connected with the University since 1912. He was made head of the Mathematics department in 1913. In 1917 he was made dean of the Arts and Sciences college, in which capacity he has served since that time. He was acting president of the University in the summer of 1917. He attended high school at Siloan Springs, Ark., and received his A. B. degree at Oberlin College in 1898. In 1905 he was given his M. A. degree from Cornell University. In 1911 he received a Ph. D. degree from the same university. He was also a Fellow in mathematics at Cornell during the years of 1905-1906.

Besides being the author of many magazine articles on scientific and educational subjects, Dean Boyd is a co-author of Boyd, Davis and Rees' Analytic Geometry. He is a member of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity, and Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity.

ATHLETIC COACHES TO GIVE SPECIAL COACHING COURSES

Game Will Teach Classes In Football; Ruby In Basketball

PRACTICE AS WELL AS THEORY TO BE GIVEN

Instructors Are Experienced In Field of Athletic Coaching

Summer courses for athletic coaches in football and basketball will be held from June 4 to June 16, according to S. A. (Daddy) Boles, director of athletics of the University. These courses will be under the direction of Harry G. Gamage, head football coach of the University, and J. Craig Ruby, head basketball coach of the University of Illinois.

This is the second year that these courses have been given at the University during the summer session, and they will be under the same directors as last year. According to Director Boles, it will be much more popular the coming season. Many inquiries have been received concerning these courses and preparations are being made for large classes.

Harry Gamage, B. S., University of Illinois, who has been head football coach at the University for the past year, will coach the football. He was assistant to the famous Robert Zuppke in football and head freshman football coach for two years at the University of Illinois and also in the north he developed some excellent players who are now on the varsity football team there. Such players as "Frosty" Peters, Judd Timm and Lannum played on the freshman team he coached in 1925.

Coach Gamage taught courses in the four-year coaching school at the University of Illinois an dalso in the summer coaching course offered at that institution. During his scouting career at Illinois he has seen practically all the Big Ten teams and also Notre Dame, Nebraska and Pennsylvania. This has given him a special knowledge of the offense and defense of these teams.

After interviewing and securing information concerning a large number of coaches throughout the country, Kentucky selected Mr. Gamage as head football coach.

He will give the course in football theory and practice which will meet daily from 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock in the morning, and from 1 o'clock to 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Coach Gamage will give special demonstration work in addition to regular classroom work.

Principles of coaching football is an extensive study of the weaknesses and strong points of various types of offenses and defenses used in the western Conference, as well as of many other teams throughout the country. Special stress will be made on generalship, signal system, scouting and rules, and a complete study will also be made of all fundamentals of football, such as tackling, blocking, handling the ball, etc.

A detailed and explanatory practice will be carried out of all fundamentals, systems of play upon the field, with a great variety of offensive and defensive work.

J. Craig Ruby, B. S., University of Missouri, will give the course in basketball coaching. He is one of the most successful basketball players the Missouri Tigers have produced. Coach Meanwell has had many great players who have worked under him, but he said "Ruby is the best basketball man I ever had under my direction."

He was made head coach of basketball, University of Missouri, in 1921 and again in 1922. He won the Missouri Valley championship both years. In 1928 he went to the University of Illinois as head basketball coach. In 1924 he tied for the championship of the Western Conference. During the time that he has been a coach at Illinois he has won more games than any other basketball coach in the Conference.

As a teacher of basketball he has proved very successful. Brought under the short passing game his playing experience led him to develop a type of his own based on the fundamentals and the best points of the short passing game combined with adaptation from the long passing system.

He will give the course in basketball theory and practice which will meet daily from 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock in the morning, and from 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, also with special demonstration work in addition to the regular classroom work.

The theory of basketball coaching, fundamentals, various offensive and defensive systems used by leading coaches of Western and Missouri Valley Conferences, will be included. Team organization, training, and handling of men will be taken up from the coach's viewpoint.

All practice fundamentals as well as all theory will be carried out in daily practice on the floor.

'Hello, Hello, This Is London Talking'

Friend in London Rings Up Miss Anita Burnam, University Employee

When Miss Anita Burnam, 140 Ransome avenue, answered the telephone Sunday morning at her home, she learned that long distance was calling her from London, England. The connection was made quickly, and she enjoyed a five-minute chat with a friend in England, significant because this was the first phone call to be made between Lexington and London.

Miss Burnam said the conversation which lasted about five minutes was entirely social and that the voice could be heard distinctly, with no mechanical interference. The call must have cost the person at the other end of the line more than $60, for the rate between the United States and London, according to F. G. McCann, wire traffic supervisor for the local telephone company, is $40 for three minutes.

Miss Burnam had been expecting the call as she had been called Saturday by a New York operator who asked if she could speak Sunday morning between 7:30 o'clock and noon. Miss Burnam is employed in the agricultural extension department of the University.

Wisconsin Alumni Of University to Attend K. E. A.

The Wisconsin Alumni Club of the University faculty, met Friday night in the University cafeteria with 15 members present.

The meeting was called by President Edward Tutthill, head of the department of history, to discuss the attendance of the club at a "get-together" to be given in honor of President Glen Frank, of Wisconsin, at Louisville. President Frank will deliver the opening address at the meeting of the K. E. A. this week. The club voted to cooperate with the Louisville alumni in putting on this affair.

At the close of the meeting officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: J. Holmes Martin, president of the College of Agriculture; Mrs. Victor R. Portmann, secretary. The next meeting of the club will be a lawn party at the home of Mrs. Rhodes.

KENTUCKY TEAM IN RARE FORM FOR GAME

By Lawrence Shropshire
Playing brilliant baseball behind the masterful pitching of Robert Rhoads, Kentucky's Wildcats shut out the Centre College nine last Saturday on Cheek Field by the score of 13 to 0. Kentucky's big portside caused nine Colonels to whiff the ozone and allowed them only two hits while his mates coupled ten hits with a like number of Centre errors to spike the rubber 13 times.

Coach Fred Major took a squad of 25 players to Danville for the game and they were greeted with the most unfavorable playing weather encountered this season. Only a handful of fans braved the biting wind to witness the contest and many of these were forced to retreat before the wintry blasts before the game was over.

Kentucky in Rare Form
The Kentucky team appeared to be in rare form and its fielding in several instances bordered on the sensational. Three misplays were chalked up against the Wildcats but this was not so bad considering the inclement weather and the condition of the diamond. This game marked the 'Cats' first encounter with another Kentucky team this season and many of those who watched the sparkling play of the Blue and White-clad boys are at a loss to understand how they had such an unsuccessful southern trip last week.

Rhoads' Twirling Masterful
Rhoads had complete control of the situation throughout the entire game. The southpaw star had pitched no-hit ball up until the seventh inning when Goings, Colonel second-sacker, poked out a long double. The only other hit garnered off his delivery was made in the next inning by Edwards, who singled to right field.

The Wildcats opened hostilities in the first frame when they shoved two markers across the plate. By the time the game was well advanced the struggle had developed into a massacre and the Majormen had managed to score at least one run in every inning except the second and eighth.

Three Colonel twirlers took their turn on the mound in an effort to stop the Wildcats, but all were equally ineffective.

Jeff Is Heavy Hitter
Irvine Jeffries, Kentucky's lead-off man and shortstop par excellence, lead his team-mates at bat by collecting four hits, one of which was a healthy three-bagger, in six appearances at the plate. Cole and Franceway each got two hits out of four attempts.

Coach Shively and Sixteen of Best Runners Will Meet Commodores Tomorrow Afternoon At Nashville.

Coach Shively and sixteen of his best cinder artists will leave Friday afternoon on the 4 o'clock bus for Louisville, and later they will entrain for Nashville to engage the Vanderbilt Commodores in a dual track meet tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Shively has been working his men hard this week putting them through their paces for the various events and a decided improvement has been shown since the Georgia Tech relays of last week, in which the 'Cats placed in two events. All of the men have been rounding into better shape.

The dash men have shown up especially well and it is almost certain that the 'Cats' sprinters will cop at least two or three of the dash events. In the mile and two-mile runs, the Kentucky men have shown promising ability. Although a little slow in starting, they warm up as the laps pass by.

In the mile and two-mile runs which the Commodores won last year, they have the same man back again. His name is Wilson, a brilliant runner, as all who saw him perform last year will vouch. He covered the mile in 4:50 and the two miles in 10:47, a splendid record. Our men in the two-mile run will be either Elliott, Johnson or Young. Johnson has shown the best speed this week. Yet is is slow compared to Wilson's time and he will have to step to keep in Whatever the outcome may be, the Vanderbilt Commodores will know that they have been in a fight and they will have to fight hard for every point they gain. The Wildcats will be out to try and avenge the defeat handed them on the gridiron this year and each would be more than willing to give his all in an effort to defeat the Commodores.

Miss Isabel Bevier To Address Girls

Famous Writer and Teacher of Home Economics to Speak
On Vocational Guidance

Miss Isabel Bevier, for 30 years head of the Home Economics department of the University of Illinois, but now retired, will come to the University May 3 to speak to the student body on some phase of vocational guidance.

Miss Bevier's expected visit to the University recalls to mind some of the work that is being done in the home economics department here and which was made possible through her as a pioneer in the field of home economics.

Miss Bevier, together with Miss Martha Van Ranssalaer, of Cornell, and Miss Abbey Marlatt, of the University of Wisconsin, has been the chief laborer and has done more for the development of home economics than any other living person. She is author of several books, among which are, "Home Economics In Education,"
"The Home and Consumer Movement," and "The House, Its Plan, Decoration, and Care."

SEVENTH SUMMER SESSION WILL BEGIN JUNE 11

School Is Expected to Be Most Successful In History of University

WORK WILL PARALLEL
REGULAR SEMESTERS

Attendance Has Increased From 300 to 1,714 In Period of Six Years

With the beginning of summer, the University will inaugurate its seventh summer session and plans are now under way to care for an enrollment which will almost parallel that of the regular ten-month period.

The summer session of 1927 offered such a satisfactory record from the standpoint of attendance, quality of students, and quality of instruction offered, that many more students are expected when registration again commences, June 11.

From an attendance of 300 in 1922,
the enrollment has grown until last year the number was 1,714—a six-fold increase in less than 10 years. In 1923 the total enrollment for both summer sessions was 796; in 1924 there were 763; in 1925 the number increased to 1,246, and again increased in 1926 until it reached 1,475.

Perhaps the most significant fact about this increase is the growth of the graduate school. In 1926 there were only 177 Kentucky graduates taking advanced courses on the campus, but in 1927, due to the additional opportunities for outside research, the number was augmented to 326, an 84 per cent increase in only one year.

One of the most interesting features of the growth of the summer school, is the interest displayed in it by teachers of Kentucky. Special training is offered for teachers in private, graded, and parochial schools, county superintendents, and teachers in junior colleges. That is one reason why there are more students who generally enroll in the summer session of the College of Education than in any other. The College of Engineering, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the College of Commerce, however, annually enlarge their enrollment.

U. K. Graduate Dies At Somerset

Former University Student Suc-
cumbs At Home of Mother
After Lingering Illness

Frank Herbert Carter, 24 years old, died Monday morning at 11:45 o'clock at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mae Carter, at Somerset, from tubercular meningitis contracted several weeks ago. At the time of his illness Mr.
Carter was assistant city editor of the Birmingham Age-Herald at Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. Carter was graduated from the University in the class of 1925 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. While at the University he was editor-in-chief of the Kentuckian, associate editor of The Kernel, and was a member of Alpha Delta Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha,
and Omicron Delta Kappa. Immediately after graduation he was offered a position on the Birmingham Age-Herald and soon worked his way up to a place of importance.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced except that the place of burial will be the Somerset cemetery. He is survived by his mother and one sister, Miss Mary Elizabeth Carter, a senior in the University.

UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS TO SPEAK AT LOUISVILLE

Dean Paul P. Boyd will read a paper on "The Steinerian Transformation," before the Kentucky section of the National Mathematics Association of America at its annual meeting this week at Louisville. Miss Lydia K. Fremd, graduate student, will give a resume of her thesis on intelligence tests and freshman grades.
Professors G. C. Latimer and H. H.
Downing will also speak. Professor Latimer's subject will be "On the Representation of Integers by Indefinite forms," while Professor Downing will speak on "Curves of Accumulation." Several members of the University department of mathematics will attend.

"Can you spell cat?" we asked of the little Boston boy.
"Yes, but I prefer to discuss the origin of the species."

Kernel Out Early

Due to the fact that the banquet of the University alumni, held in connection with the Kentucky Educational Association meeting at Louisville this week, will be held at the Brown hotel Thursday evening, The Kernel is forced to come out a day early in order to have copies of the paper at Louisville in time to be distributed at the banquet.

The department of education ordered 500 copies of the summer edition of The Kernel for distribution among the alumni and visitors.

This is the sixteenth annual banquet to be held and every year large numbers of alumni take this opportunity of renewing their acquaintances with the faculty and with each other.

Strollers Present 'Dulcy' at Covington

Cincinnati Alumni Sponsor Trip
Of Cast To Northern
Kentucky

Strollers, the student dramatic club of the University, makes its initial appearance in northern Kentucky when it presents "Dulcy" in the Holmes High school auditorium tonight. The presentation is being sponsored by the University of Kentucky alumni of greater Cincinnati, of which E. E.
Elsey, of Ft. Thomas, is president.

By adding Covington to its list of out-of-town trips, the organization hopes to extend its work into a new field and at the same time to offer the home folks an opportunity to see Mary Virginia Hailey, of Cincinnati,
Lewis McDannold, of Covington, Leonard Weakley, of Ft. Thomas, and Chas. Blaine, of Dry Ridge. While in Covington the Strollers will be entertained by the relatives and friends of members of the cast and by the alumni of the University of Kentucky.

The Cincinnati Times-Star carried an eight column headline on its theatrical page Monday afternoon heralding the forth-coming production, so that many favorable reports have been foretold for a successful trip to Covington.

Those who will make the trip are:
Mary Virginia Hailey, Martha Minihan, Elizabeth Turner, Lewis McDannold, Charles Blaine, Leonard Weakley, Bob Thompson, Frank Davidson, Lawton Daly, Henry Maddow, Tom Riley, Sam Blackburn, James Thompson, Don Forman and Ben Van Meter.
Miss Marguerite McLaughlin will accompany the cast as chaperone.

CHINESE SCHOLAR SPEAKS TO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

the youth of Russia? It takes two to make friends."

Doctor Lew introduced some friends
—some typical Chinese College Folk
—as he called them. A freshman, a sophomore, a junior, three seniors and a young girl were realistically pictured.

"When the government fails to dismiss bad members of the cabinet, and the business men are afraid to say anything, the college students are the only class of people who have the courage to speak up and make the cabinet dismiss the bad members. The students have no time to think about athletic games and dates. Even now when the customs have changed the only dates they have are to discuss political problems," said Dr. Lew.

"There are four classes of people in China, the scholar, the farmer, the workman and the business man. The scholar ranked first because he was the bearer of the torches of knowledge and therefore the ruler of the land. The farmer ranked second because he provided the food without which no one could talk politics. The workman ranked third because he produced the utensils with which to work. The business man ranked fourth because he seemed to profit on other men's work. Business men were respected if they could rise above their trade, but those who thought of money from morning to night were despised. But now business has skipped up to the top of the ladder and China is gradually becoming industrialized."

Doctor Ting Fang Lew also spoke Tuesday, April 17, at 4 p. m., in the Men's gymnasium on "What Is the Trouble With China," and Wednesday afternoon on "What Are the Nationalists Trying to Do?"

PHI BETA KAPPA TO GIVE BANQUET

Prof. Lane Cooper, of Cornell,
Will Give Principal Address;
Initiation Ceremonies to Precede the Affair.

Alpha of Kentucky chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will hold its annual banquet Friday, April 27, at 6:30 o'clock at the Lafayette hotel at which Prof.
Lane Cooper, of Cornell university, will deliver the principal address.

Dr. Cooper has chosen as his topic,
"Platonic Strife," and the meeting will be open to the public. Those who are interested in attending the banquet should get in touch with the chairman of the committee, Dr. G. G.
Buckner, of the University experiment station. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Alberta Server and Dr. Simeon Leland.

The organization is very fortunate in securing Dr. Cooper to speak here as he is an eminent authority on the relations of classical literature and learning to modern times. He is the author of several recognized books on the subject and is at present also one of the editors of the "Cornell Studies In English."

Dr. Cooper is a graduate of Rutgers College, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and has done graduate work at Yale, Berlin and Leipzig. In 1921 Rutgers gave him an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature and he has also studied at College de France, and taught at Stanford, the University of California, and the University of Illinois.

At a meeting next Wednesday Phi Beta Kappa will elect their new members from the June graduating class of the University. Initiation services will be held in the afternoon before
the banquet.

Dr. McVey Returns From Florida; Made Educational Survey

President Frank L. McVey, recently returned from Florida where he assisted in the survey of two state educational institutions, reports himself as favorably impressed with the entire South, and in particular with the excellent educational endeavor now being made in Florida.

Doctor McVey spent a week at the two larger institutions of the state, the University of Florida at Gains-ville, and the Woman's College at Tallahassee. The state legislature provided for the survey, and it includes the entire system of public instruction.

"The most interesting thing about the South," Dr. McVey said, "is the remarkable change taking place in the towns and villages and the improvement on the roads throughout the country."

Results of the survey will be made known later.

STROLLERS TO MEET MONDAY

There will be a meeting of the Strollers Monday afternoon, April 23, at 4 o'clock, in White hall. The annual election of officers will take place, so all members are urged to be present.

Agricultural Society Plans Annual Dance

Event Will Be Given May 12 in Men's Gymnasium; Ecton
Is Chairman

The Agricultural Society of the College of Agriculture, held its regular meeting in room 205 of the Agricultural building Monday night at 7:45 o'clock. A short humorous program under the auspices of the sophomore class was presented before the business session was opened by H. C. Brown, president of the society.

Plans for the annual agricultural dance to be given May 12 in the Men's gymnasium were discussed and a committee composed of Penrose Ec-ton, chairman, Ann B. Eyl, Irene Warnick, Clarence Kindoll, and Josephine Frazier, was appointed to put the plans into effect.

The next meeting of the society will be strictly social and will take the form of a weiner roast and a hay ride. It will be held Monday night, April 30. All members are urged to attend.

PLAN COMMENCEMENT

According to an announcement of Prof. W. L. Roberts, of the College of Law, general chairman of the commencement committee of the University, this year's graduation class will be the largest in the history of the institution. The exercises will be held on May 28 and the committee is busy preparing a suitable program for the occasion.

One of the biggest questions to be decided by every department store is how often to hold its annual sale.
